TO OBSERVE CHILDREN'S WEEK APRIL 30 TO MAY 7

Sunday Schools of this community and county are planning to take part in a continent-wide observance of "Children's Week" April 30 to May 7. The schools everywhere are following a unified program which has been mapped out by the International Sun day School Association. The movement in the state is under the general direction of the Indiana Sunday School Association with Miss Nellie C. Young, Superintendent of the Children's Division in immediate

The purpose of this movement is to emphasize the religious education of children. There is a state law with truant officers to enforce it which compels children to attend the public schools and obtain the instruction there, but only the law of desire prevails when it comes to getting the children into the Sunday Schools. Miss Young quotes figures showing that of 25,000,000 under years of age on the North American Continent, 13,000,000 are receiving no relig ious education whatever. The percentage is regarded as too large in every commuity, and as a result of this observance it is hoped that more thought will be given to children.

Efforts in the communities will be directed to correcting the situation and bring every child possible into Sunday School and where the children are already attending to make the attendance more regular, and to emphasize mofe efficient work. The ne young will, during Children's Week, be especially emphasized to parents. House-to-house visitations to enroll children will be made. A street parade of sunday school children, a festival of song and story, a pageant of play, an institute for parents and teachers, are all to be featured in the unified program of the

FOUR BABY TIMBER WOLVES CAPTURED NEAR LAFAYETTE

Pioneer days were recalled when Harry Mason a signal maintainer on the Monon railroad, and Wells Phillips, his assistant, captured four young timber wolves in a field along the railroad between Monon and Lee after the mother wolf had been shot and wounded.

Mason and Phillips were riding on a gasoline speeder making their regular inspection of the railroad signal apparatus, when they espied the female wolf and her young on the prairie close to the tracks. Mason had a gun with him and took a shot at the mother wolf. All five animals fled, but the two investigated and found blood spots on the field. They traced the animals by the blood trail to their den a short distance away.

Using a shovel, Mason and Phillips dug out the young wolves, but found that the wounded mother wo'f had made her escape. The baby wolves were taken aboard the speeder and at the first station were boxed and train Dispatcher McConnell at the Salem street office in this city was notified. Oil Company when he was 31. # MAD DOG CAUSES CONSTERNATION BAINBRIDGE

DODE FORSHER IS BIT BY ANI-.MAL WHICH STATE AUTHOR-ITIES SAY HAD RABIES-SCOTCH COLLIE, ORDINARILY DOCILE. SUDDENLY CON-RABIES - TOWN ALARMED OVER SERIOUS SIT-UATION

BAINBRIDGE, Ind., April 16 .-Placid Bainbridge was thrown into a furore of excitement yesterday by the receipt from state authorities of information that the dog which bit Dode Forsher, a local grocer, Friday, had a severe case of rabies. The dog's head was sent to the state authorities for examination and diagnosis immediately after it was killed by a local veterinarian Friday. Forsher was notified to hasten with all possible speed to Indianapolis for treatment against possible infection with hydrophobia.

On Friday afternoon Forsher, who conducts a grocery here, noticed that on ordinarily docile Scotch Collie dog of his was acting queerly in the back vard of his shop. It was snapping at unseen objects and frothing at the mouth. He summoned a veterinarian who said that the dog should be watched but did not immediately diagnose the case as rabies. The dog snapped at chickens several times and then went into a small shed at the back of the lot. Forsher said he was going into the shed to see what Hope, Ark., but we can't hold out was the matter. The veterinarian advised against this but Forsher went.

As Forsher leaned over to stroke the dog's head, after he had arrived inside the shed, the dog suddenly bit his thumb and held on. Forsher tried to extricate his thumb from the fast locked jaws of the mad dog, and only succeeded after the skin had been torn from the thumb by the teeth of the brute. The dog was immediately killed and its head sent to Indianapolis for diagnosis.

The town marshall following advice from the state department, has issued an order requiring all owners of dogs to leash them, keep them in the house for a period of sixty days or kill them. The residents are quite Mackawaz, when questioned by Prosecutor Hamilton stated that he was in no way connected with the booze haulers. He stated that he was merely helping them out of the mud hole and was to be paid for his services. He stated that he joined the party at Mitchell, Sunday noon. He bought a quart of whiskey from them paying $12 for it.

Later Monday, the drivers of the booze car stated that they wished to call someone in St. Louis but as they would not tell who it was or why they wanted to call him. They also asked to call the owner of the truck S. W. Hargett, at Columbus, Georgia.

They said that they procured the liquor at Columbus, Georgia and were taking it to St. Charles, Missouri.

Directors Try to Conduct Birmingham Iron Works as Christ Would.

WORKERS ARE ALL SATISFIED

Year Round Jobs, No Layoffs or Short Time, No Cuts in Pay Is Policy -Care for Welfare of Employees.

Birmingham, Ala.-Directors of the American Cast Iron Pipe company of Birmingham were in annual session. Routine business had been disposed of and the time for the election of officers had come. A member arose and proposed the name of John J. Eagan, prominent in business, philanthropy, and in reform projects in the South. Born with the silver spoon in his mouth he had increased his fortune by wise investments and sage business deals, and had become known as a leader in all movements for the betterment of his fellow man.

Mr. Eagan was unanimously elected president of this great concern, one of the largest and the most prosperous in the South, and one marked by the good will evident always between employer and employee

Then another member took the floor to propose that from this time on it be formally made a platform of the company that employer and employee: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. Follow in the footsteps of Christ." Motion Unanimously Adopted.

There was mild surprise only expressed as the motion was seconded. There were no questions as to its wisdom. There was only the motion to adopt made and the second. The vote in its favor was manimous. And when this most unusual action of the company directors became known, it seemed to embarrass the new president that he was called upon to explain and almost defend the new standard of

"I don't see why anybody should feel that it is unusual, this action of ours." he said, "and I really don't like to talk about it. The directors didn't care to have this platform advertised. It didn't mean anything to them, because that is what we have been doing in reality all the time. All the platform meant was a mere formality.

"I wouldn't even talk about it if it were not for the fact that it is possible other business concerns may read about it and may think it worth while

Mr. Eagan asserted his belief that it was largely due to the favor in which the Lord held this plan of co-operation that the company had prospered during what had proved a hard and difficult year for other concerns: He stated it as his belief that one of the things most necessary in a concern run after the manner of the teachings of Jesus Christ is that every employee get continuous employment even if the employer managed to make no profit.

Not that Mr. Eagan is doubtful over that point. He is really and honestly convinced that Christ will help those who aid others and that in the last analysis the spirit of Jesus is predominant in all men. He believes that all who are fair and square in business dealings-and that is all he believes Christ would ask-will in the long run win over trickery. He believes in hon-

He believes that employees, if they receive a square and honest deal, if treated like human beings and not like chattels, if paid wages as high as their value and company profits will allow, and if met man to man by the employer, will give the same sort of a deal. He believes this is the real and true solution of the labor-capital problem-a square deal.

If Christ Conducted Plant. Mr. Eagan pointed out two of the lominant ideas of the program of the teachings of Christ, as he understands them. One is that if Christ were to run a plant he would: Give every man and woman a year ound job; no layoffs; no short time; no reductions in pay at any time.

Give every man a living wage, one that would make him and his wife and children comfortable at least.

And this has been strictly followed in the Birmingham plant. All the year round the employees have worked full time and have earned it, and all the year round the plant has paid more than the standard scale. In other Mr. and Mrs. John Beaman of words, it has become a badge of disknown that you work for the plant.

The company has provided the employees with a big Y. M. C. A. building, which has become a center of all their social activities. And it has grown to mean more than that. Now it has a staff of dentists, physicians, nurses and all kinds of experts.

It has been the aim of the company from the beginning to take care, in so far as is possible, of the social, physical and economic welfare of all its employees and to bring about a healthful spirit of co-operation and Darkeys in Their Element at Cane-Cutting Time.

Busy Scenes Are Those on the Sugar Plantations When the Harvest Is Being Gathered.

"Wake up, you niggers, and git yoah brekfus ready! Wake up and git to work!" rings through the streets of age," observed Cash Miller of the the little town still rapt in slumber, chain cigar store as he submitted a Helene Robbins writes in the New Or. handful of tempting Havanas for the leans Times-Picayune. Four o'clock approval of the Old Customer, says and the crier goes slowly on. The Thrift. black, foggy night lags in flight as if wondering when the brilliant sun will come to frighten it away. Loudly and man life," replied the Old Customer more insistently the old man cries the gravely. alarm, alternating between a sing-song and a more emphatic call, till gradually one seems to know that life bestirs | country today that knowed Washingitself behind the closed doors of the cabins. Here a woman, opening the young blade out in Kentucky who says door, stares at the receding back of the crier, there a man's dark head pro- 30th er 130 on the 20th, but anyhow, trudes from the white curtains in an open window and calls to a friend in ever did, if not more so, and my only the neighboring house. Smoke curls physical defect, he says, is dandruff, upward from rows of chimneys. The odor of coffee fills the air. Lights gleam in the curtained doorways, and boisterous chatter proclaims the workers preparing for the field.

Soon they stream from the cabins, men and women, young and old; huge sun hats cover the dusky heads. The women's skirts, looped up by the tiestrings about the hips, reach only to the knees, the upper excess of cloth forming a bustle effect of ample proportions. Pipes in mouths, dinner uckets,in hand and cane-knives slung over shoulders, the colorful procession of workers wends its way, slip-slop, slip-slop, through the streets, into dusty roadways and on to the canefield destination. Children, too, accompany it, to play with the shanty children on the plantation grounds. Or left to themselves at home they grasp their chance of uninterrupted squabble and play with happy hearts.

Now in the fields, the slashing of the tall cane stalks forms an accompaniment for the songs and chatter of the negroes. The overseer as he rides by, stopping his slow-moving horse for a moment to survey the fields of workers, sees bended backs, hears the calls to one another or the now almost breathless songs, and smiles a bit, for ne enjoys the cane-cutting harvest as much as they. And truly the negroes enjoy it, that camaraderie especially, and the opportunity to exchange the sawmill jobs at $2 and $3 a day for $1.50 and a full day's work in the field. They cut, as they say, "from kin to cain't," from the time when they can see till the time when they can't and they enjoy it. But the negroes are not the only ones who enjoy the cane cutting and grinding season. The boys of the neighborhood are in the element. When armed with a stout knife they battle against the huge ever-revolving carrier that hauls the stalks up into the mill and out of their reach. Better and sweeter still is the cane chewed on the sly in the solitary midst of a waving cane field, or "swiped" from loaded freight cars in the early "neeled for the watchman," the other on the lookout against wormy cane. How torturing are the after-hours spent at school for lesson failure or for "teasing the girls," when the other fellows are out in the cane fields or at the mill! And when knives are forfeited for a period, for cutting desks instead of cane, how cruel to them is the punishment! Sugar cane season is indeed a school season of cutting and squirm-

One can imagine, for hours at a time, the scenes taking place in the fields or in the mill, but cares and duties call and the fascinating planta tion view must be left for fall housecleaning, or garden-making, or business, until the bell calls once again.

In the meantime, negroes bend to their task in the fields, the great mouth of the derrick hauls the cane into the carrier, boys and girls chew cane, and life on the plantation, a midget world in itself, goes along in humdrum, everyday fashion.

Fur Bearers Vanish.

The muskrat, formerly held in small esteem, is today recognized as the most important of American fur-bearing animals. Its pelt, having become fashionable, commands an ever-increasing price. Thereby the pursuit of the little censt has been stimulated, with the result that its numbers nearly every where are rapidly diminishing. Trappers in the state of Wisconsin took more than 800,000 muskrats in 1917. In 1918 they took fewer than 0, and in 1919 only about 150,000. -Philadelphia Ledges

Off the coast of Norway not long ago was captured a specimen of the shark tribe, which, in the form of its teeth and in other characteristic features, closely resembles a species of shark that inhabited the ocean in that immeasurably remote period called in geology the Devonian age. A similar shark was captured by the prince of Monaco's yacht off the Madeira islands, in 1889. These two specimens, with a few others found in the Japanese seas, which are remarkable for the number of survivals of ancient forms of life that they contain, constitute the only known representatives now on the earth of the Devonian

Vacuum-Made Films. At a meeting of the Academy of Sciences in Paris Professor Houllevigue described a method of producing thin metallic films by volatilization in a vacuum. The metal to be deposited is first disposed in a layer on a platinum wire, which is then heated in a high vacuum. The film forms on a plate of glass, which is kept in rotation near the heated wire. In this manner, it is said, thin films have been produced of gold, silver, platinum, iron, copper, zinc, tin and cadmium.

Turn on the light

OWLS see better in the dark than they do in daylight. So do bats and one or two other freaks of animal life. But human beings do not.

Yet, it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: now more than ever before, we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value. Yet, lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut.

And it's so easy to be sure you're right.

Spend a few minutes a day running through the advertisements in this newspaper. Then buy the products that have proved up under the spotlight of consistent publicity.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise invite the inspection of thousand's of eyes.

Here in the advertising columns you see products that have made good before the critical audience of buyers. These products are full value products. They return you dollar for dollar.

Buy them. Read the advertisements and buy the advertised products.

> Then you can know you're spending your money wisely
